

IASME Consortium[®]

Get GDPR-ready with IASME Governance certification for your organisation

The IASME Consortium is the leading Accreditation Body for the government-backed Cyber Essentials certification scheme and the award-winning IASME Governance standard.

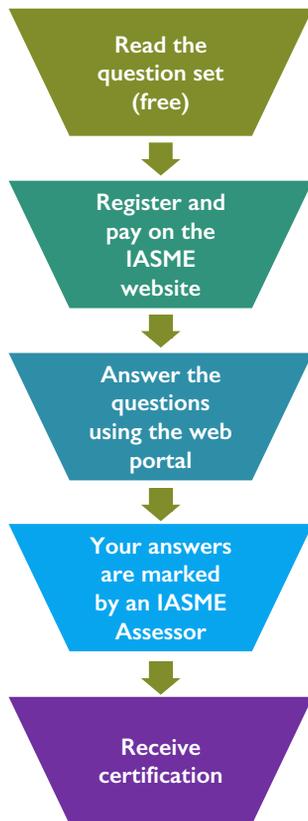

Our standards enable you to demonstrate that you look after your customer's information securely.

Our assessors complete a GCHQ-certified training process to enable them to confirm your readiness for the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). Our IASME Governance standard has data protection right at its core.

And, if you are just starting your security journey, the government-backed Cyber Essentials standard is a great way to begin.

How do I get my organisation certified and what is involved?

"We're delighted to have gone through the process, which was adeptly handled by IASME"

Proelium Law LLP

Complying with our certifications significantly reduces the risk of your organisation becoming a victim of a cyber attack.

The IASME Governance standard is risk-led and covers similar topics to the ISO 27001 standard but is more practical for SMEs to implement.

Having a risk-led security environment is central to meeting the GDPR requirements.

If you want to offer more assurance to your clients, you can request IASME Governance Audited, where a skilled IASME assessor visits your business and independently verifies your security.

We ensure the quality of our assessment schemes through strict training and security requirements for our Certification Bodies.

We carry out regular quality control and operate an independent expert panel to guide the direction of our standards.
